

Academic Diversity Officer

California State University, Fullerton's Office of Diversity, Inclusion and Equity Programs is currently seeking a diversity officer with expertise in matter of faculty diversity and Inclusive Excellence. The Academic Diversity Officer serves as a lead strategist on the complex work of developing and implementing proactive initiatives that support the lasting success of a diverse community of faculty and students, especially those from underrepresented groups. This position reports to and works collaboratively with the Asst. Vice President for Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion on matters of strategic importance with particular emphasis on: furthering the compositional diversity of campus faculty, advancing equitable outcomes for students, and providing guidance and support to academic leaders to consider EDI (Equity, Diversity, and Inclusion) in all aspects of their work.

The Academic Diversity Officer will work closely with key campus partners, including the Provost's leadership team, associate deans, and search committees. In addition to developing and implementing a focused strategy, this position is also responsible for defining and tracking diversity metrics as well as having oversight for our annual workforce diversity reporting to external bodies.

The ideal candidate will have familiarity with the intricacies of faculty search and RTP processes from an equity-minded perspective. This unique combination of expertise can be acquired by serving in academic administrative roles, service in a diversity office tasked with faculty diversity, or working directly with faculty affair matters.
