The Kelley School of Business at Indiana University, Bloomington is accepting applications for full-time Lecturer (rank open) positions to teach Communication Skills (business writing, business presentations) courses in the Communication, Professional, and Computer Skills area, effective fall 2023. These are 10-month appointments with an 18-24 credit hour teaching assignment.

Candidates must have a Master’s Degree, Ph.D. (or ABD with completion by August 2023), or other postgraduate degree (e.g., J.D.) in Communication, Business, Journalism, Law, English or a related field. Excellent verbal and written communication skills, commitment to university service and personal professional development, and the ability to work as a member of a collaborative faculty team are also required.

The ideal candidate will have experience teaching undergraduate business students. Candidates with experience in corporate communication or corporate training are also encouraged to apply.

Applicants must be eager to help advance the School’s diversity, equity, inclusion, and belonging climate in its curriculum, initiatives, and programs.

All applicants must submit a statement addressing their contributions to diversity through research, teaching, work experience, and/or service, including how they would contribute to the hiring unit’s commitment to being an inclusive educational and working environment for the students, faculty, staff, and other stakeholders of the Kelley School of Business and Indiana University. This statement should be submitted under “Diversity Statement” in the Required Documents.

To ensure consideration, applications should be received by January 9, 2023; however, the search will continue reviewing applications until positions fill.

Interested applicants should review position requirements and apply at https://indiana.peopleadmin.com/postings/15075. Applicants should direct questions to David Brimm, Associate Director of Communication and Professional Skills, Kelley School of Business, 1309 E. Tenth Street, Bloomington, IN 47405 or dbrimm@indiana.edu.
