

Full-time Lecturer in Diversity and Inclusion Leadership.

The Diversity and Inclusion Leadership Graduate Program (DLS) at Tufts University's Graduate School of Arts and Sciences is seeking applicants for a full-time lecturer position to begin in September 2022. This interdisciplinary program is focused on engaging students with scholarly theories and practical tools for careers in leadership to create change within organizations and society for greater justice, equity, diversity, and inclusion. The teaching, research, and practice interests of the successful candidate should be in the areas around these themes broadly conceived. Expertise in Diversity, Equity, Inclusion, and Justice (DEIJ) leadership, organizational change, critical theory, program evaluation are all areas of interest.

A Doctorate degree in relevant areas that include, but are not limited to, Education, Urban and Environmental Planning, Child Study and Human Development, Psychology, Sociology, Anthropology, Cultural Studies and Political Science. Familiarity with the development of virtual course material and teaching on-line is highly preferred. Besides teaching within the suite of courses in the program, this individual will serve as an advisor for students in the program. The load consists of six-course equivalent per academic year which will be delivered virtually and in-person.

Application requirements: All applications are submitted via Interfolio, at <http://apply.interfolio.com/94194>. Note that Applicants should supply a letter of application outlining relevant experience, CV, three letters of recommendation uploaded directly by recommenders to Interfolio; and a brief teaching statement. Our program is committed to diversity, equity, and inclusion, and candidates should address, across their materials, how they promote these priorities in their professional career.

Please contact Dr. Silas Pinto at Silas.Pinto@tufts.edu if further information is needed. Review of applications will begin November 15th and continue until the position is filled.
