Assistant or Associate Professor of Psychology (Tenure Track)
Rollins College, Winter Park, FL

The Department of Psychology at Rollins College invites applicants for a tenure track position in Applied Psychology (e.g. Clinical, I/O, Neuropsychology or related areas) beginning August 2014. Depending on experience, this appointment will be at either the Assistant or Associate level. Applicants should have a Ph.D. in Psychology and show evidence of outstanding teaching and excellence in research. The successful candidate will join a collegial team of 9 faculty in Psychology and be expected to teach undergraduate courses like Introductory Psychology, Statistics, Research Methods, and topical courses in his or her area of specialization in both the Arts & Sciences and the Holt Evening Degree programs.

Interested candidates must apply online through Rollins' employment website at www.rollinsjobs.com. Applicants must upload the following materials when applying for this position:

1. Cover letter describing teaching and research interests, adaptability of your program of research/practice to a liberal arts environment.
2. Curriculum vitae
3. Summary of teaching evaluations (especially experience with blended learning or adult learning populations)
4. Representative publications
5. Three letters of reference

Only questions may be directed to:
Jennifer Queen
Chair, Search Committee
Email: JQUEEN@rollins.edu

Review of applications will begin October 15, 2013, and continue until the position is filled.

Through its mission, Rollins College is firmly committed to creating a just community that embraces multiculturalism; persons from historically under-represented minority groups are therefore encouraged to apply.